

THE MYTH OF ATLANTIS, IT IS REAL, AND CAN WE FIND IT?

The myth of Atlantis and the advanced, rich, and cultural civilization, which has disappeared under the waves of the angry sea is fascinating to many historians, scientists, and philosophers. Many archaeological expeditions and adventures have tried to find where it is, but the ocean jealously guarding its secret. The legend is telling us about the mystical beauty and richness of Atlantis, which have disappeared overnight in one of the most unfortunate catastrophic events in human history. There are many theories and false claims about this event, but currently, we are even not sure it is really Atlantis has ever existed or is just a script of an ancient story. We do not possess rich data and many concrete pieces of evidence for its existence, but despite this, I will try to shed light on this fascinating story and a great mystery. There are a few factors, which has contributed to disappearances of the archaeological record, scientific facts, evidence, and written record. The first factor is natural causes, but the second is the human factor.

A part of the normal regular natural events such as erosion, floods, and time, which destroy the archaeological evidence, the regular and repeated ice ages on Earth are one of the major factors for the disappearance of the archaeological and paleontological evidence for human settlements and past organized societies. The advancing and retreating ice sheets act as bulldozers, smashing and mixing everything under. The melting of ice sheets is finishing the job by washing the soil gradually in front of the retreating ice. That's why in Europe and North America hardly we can find anything. In some caves, we find a lode artifact, but the crucial evidence for organized societies, which not living in caves is missing from the picture.

The next factor is the human factor. The continuous wars between the different ethnic groups in the past have destroyed many cultural and social structures, which could be an absolute treasure for our correct understanding of our past.

The major blow to our knowledge was done by the Roman Empire with the barbaric destruction of the library of Alexandria, followed by the book burning and scientists torture and burning by the Catholic Church in the Middle Ages.

Currently, this process is continuing, with the hiding and twisting of all scientific evidence and facts, including modern human origin and history. The financial elite even buy and hide in private collections many of them uncomfortable for them archaeological artifacts. In order to rule unopposed, they are creating social chaos, where widespread corruption and public confusion act as cover-up operations for their activity because, in total chaos, nobody can notice what they are doing. Anyway, where actually the myth of Atlantis actually come from?

The story of Atlantis we learn from Plato. We have very good reason to trust this man, because he is one of the brightest minds of humanity, and his reputation and credibility are unquestionable. From the archaeological record, we have evidence, that Plato is correct because he gives the exact time of the disappearance of Atlantis which is the exact time of the great Earth catastrophe 12,800 years ago. I would like to start our consideration with some facts of global scale, and events, which look, unrelated to our story, but be passionate; they are really crucial evidence and leading clues in our search. If we need to find the truth, we have to consider with an open mind all available evidence without a pre-determined agenda. It is well-known that 12,800 years ago a major catastrophic event with extraterrestrial origin. To conclude that this catastrophe has been just a local event or meteoric impact is a very primitive way to consider the complicity of the actual events because just meteoric impact cannot explain the chain of catastrophic events.

What are the facts that we possess for this major earth catastrophe?

We are facing multiple mysteries in the Earth's conditions in this period. One of them is the position of the glaciation in the northern and south hemispheres. A well-known fact is that the geographic poles or the position of the Earth's rotational axis are the points of low Sunshine and is the center of the glaciation. In the last ice age, we are observing a very strange position of the glaciation. The thickest ice has been in the area of Hudson Bay in Canada, and the glaciations have reached 35 parallel. Respectively at the same time, on the opposite side of Earth, we are also observing glaciations in Australia up to 35 Parallel - (Mt. Kosciusko). Also at the same time, mysteriously, currently the coldest part of the Northern and Southern hemispheres – Siberia and the western part of Antarctica has been ice-free. Such an anomaly would be impossible if the Earth's axis in this period had been in the same position where it is now! The allocation of the ice cups is undeniable proof that in the last ice age, the Earth's axis has been in a different location and its location has been in northern Canada, and south of Tasmania. In support of this coming to existence of about 20 ancient maps, on the base of which is drawn the very accurate map of the world by Turkish admiral Piri Reis, which shows Antarctica's west coast free of ice! The maps of Admiral Piri have fine details of the Antarctic coastline, which currently is covered by massive ice sheets. The Piri map has been drawn in 1513 - about 300 years before the Europeans have discovered Antarctica. Such maps cannot be produced without ground-penetrating radar. We know that the ancient cartographers did have not such radar, and this is undeniable evidence, that the west coast of Antarctica has been ice-free. The maps give incredibly accurate land details and longitude, and this can tell us two things: - that there was been period, when the west coast of Antarctica was ice-free, and there was advanced civilization before 12.800 years ago with knowledge and capability to sail and navigate the oceans, to circumnavigate and to produce very accurate maps!

The ignorance of the significance of these two facts by present science is very disturbing behavior. The combination of the rapid and catastrophic end of the ice age 12,800 years ago and the shift of Earth's rotational axis is leading to a conclusion for the cosmic origin of this catastrophe. When we consider the chain of events the most credible explanation is that only interference of passing massive celestial bodies through the Solar system will be able to produce such dramatic catastrophic consequences. - To change the angle of the Earth's rotational axis is necessary also to alter the Moon's orbit because our Moon is acting as a gyroscope and stabilizing the Earth's rotational axis. There is no known any physical effect of Earth's origin to be able to change simultaneously to such an extent the Earth's rotational axis and to alter the Moon's orbit. From this point of understanding, the chain of catastrophic events 12,800 years ago starts making sense. - Passing foreign objects as a star or big planet through the Solar system inevitably will disrupt the gravitational and electromagnetic balance of the Solar system. This will bring a shower of meteorites from the outer orbits and create a Solar electromagnetic storm. The weaker spot of Earth's magnetic shield is the Polar Regions, and exactly where most of the solar electromagnetic radiation will penetrate through. The interaction of the Earth's magnetic field with the incredibly strong pulses of solar radiation will heat the polar atmosphere and melt the polar ice caps rapidly (as a microwave oven). This is the logical explanation of the proclamation by the current climatologists "energy mystery" of the rapid ice sheets melting because even the strongest equatorial sun does not have enough energy to melt ice 2 miles thick and cause world flooding. What really happened, how did the ice age finish in such a dramatic way, and how did these events wipe out the megafauna and civilizations such as Clovis and Atlantis?

The sequences of this event we can find if we consider the strange property of our neighbor – Venus. Contrary to all other planets, Venus has an opposite rotating orbit and opposite axis rotation. This we will have only if Venus is a captured object, which originally does not form in the Solar System. The clue that is pointing out that Venus comes recently is the Venus atmosphere. – It is about 96 times thicker than the Earth's atmosphere. We know that Venus does not have its own magnetic field which will protect its atmosphere from being blown out by the solar wind, which is the case with Mars. Mars is a few times further from the Sun than Venus, and despite this distance, the majority of Mars's atmosphere has been blown away, because Mars has lost its magnetic shield. From this example becomes obvious, that Venus has come into its present orbit very recently. Let's consider how such a substantial celestial body as Venus can be taken from its orbit and forced to rotate in the opposite direction. To be able to do this, it is necessary to intervene in another celestial body with much greater mass than Venus, and this celestial body has to be much bigger and have the substantial velocity to be able to pass through and exit out of the Solar System. Still how exactly this happened is not well understood, because Venus's orbit is nearly circular, but such an event most likely will leave Venus on an elongated elliptic orbit. It needs to know the exact path of the interfering object to be able to determine how the planetary balance will be restored.

In such an event, the passing Venus in close proximity to the Earth could produce the catastrophic events that we know. Such an event could explain why the Earth's rotational axis has been tilted up by 30 degrees and why the Moon craters mainly are on one side only. This could explain the catastrophic flood around the Earth because the passing of a planet bigger than the Moon will create tidal waves of catastrophic proportion! Passing of planet close to the Earth could dislodge the Earth's tectonic plates and create the disappearance of Atlantis. Passing through the Solar system massive objects could carry or bring not only meteorites but also a cloud of dust. - Not many astrophysicists realize that in the condition of the electromagnetic storm, such dust particles will be as dangerous as a massive meteorite shower. Those fine particles will be ionized and will be blasted with Solar wind in the Earth's atmosphere and act as the volcanic pyroclastic ash. The easy access is the Polar Regions, where the Earth's magnetic field comes in. The combination of these events is creating a really catastrophic scenario! – The combination of increased Sun activity, electromagnetic storms, meteorite showers, and charged cosmic dust particle bombardment. All this simultaneously is hitting the polar region. The result of this is catastrophic! The forests are burning; the ice is melting, the sky is blackened with ash and steam, continuous thunderbolts and electromagnetic discharges striking the surface.

The steam saturated the atmosphere with an enormous quantity of water, and not only the melting of the ice, but the continuous for months torrential rain put North America and Europe under the water of enormous floods. The rapidly raised global temperature produced powerful cyclones of unseen scale. The powerful wind and tornadoes are cleaning up everything on their path. After a few decades of rapid warming, the melted freshwater has altered the oceanic currents, the blackened sky stopping the sunlight, and this led to the total disruption of global balance and reversed the cycle to extremely rapid global cooling – Younger Dryas period of 1,000 years. In such dramatic conditions, the first victims are the animals on the top of the food chain – the megafauna. The smallest animals are more adaptive, need less food, and have more rapid reproduction. That's why they manage to survive, but their huge cousins have died. In these conditions, the human population has not been immune. The lack of food makes impossible the survival of large groups. This has spelled the end of the civilized human societies as Clovis civilization in North America and the range of cities in the Middle East, and Asia, which is well documented by the advanced Vedic civilization. Only small groups of hunter-gatherers manage to survive because they are more capable of surviving in the elements, but not the civilized societies. Recent scientific evidence is shedding light on these catastrophic events – their time, areas, origin, and their intensity. The Greenland ice core samples are pinpointing with incredible precision the actual timing and duration of the event. The study of Michail Petaev shows that the fall out of platinum-rich dust is in just 21 days - 12,800 years ago! The composition of the platinum particles clearly shows their extraterrestrial origin. The findings of Michail Pataev have been confirmed from the sediment samples of Younger Dryas layers of North America and Europe. There are a few factors, that can be the reason for the disappearance of Atlantis, but as I stated in the beginning usually the catastrophe is not a single event, but a series of bad events happen at the same time. – And this is exactly what happened to Atlantis. But on top of the total ecological disaster and enormous tidal waves, there is something else, hidden from our view! - Something, for which the specialists are not talking yet! - The gravitational influence of the passing planet, the severe electromagnetic storm, and the changing of Earth's axis will have a significant effect on the magma conveyor belt and Earth's tectonic plates. The thick ice sheet in North America has produced a surface depression in the area of Hudson Bay and the Great American lakes. When the ice melts suddenly, the reduced pressure on the Earth's surface causes those regions to pop up. The sudden rise (pop-up) of the Earth's surface in one region will cause shock waves, earthquakes, giant tsunamis, and some unstable regions can (pop down). In this complicated picture of events have to be included another disturbing possibility. There is a “Gas Belts” theory which explains that the gas that is dissolved in the magma can slowly accumulate in some areas in huge quantities in the Earth's crust and any major disturbance can prick this huge bubble. This probably is what had happened to Atlantis! All the region suddenly has been sucked down as a result of the reduced pressure of the Earth's interior. The result of this is the disappearance beneath the waves of the most advanced civilization of our past, which we know as “The Myth of Atlantis.”

In a catastrophe like this, the lucky ones able to board a ship and get away definitely will go straight to the nearest coast. They will never sail thousands of kilometers away. – And this is the clue to find the location of Atlantis. The smoking gun is the mystery of Gobekli Tepe. Graham Hancock claims that this settlement appears suddenly from nowhere and the first stone structures are the most sophisticated. With time, the stonework gradually lost its prime quality. The similar mysterious appearance of ancient masonry skill we are witnessing in Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, and South America. This fact can be explained only by the re-settling of a well-advanced civilization as Atlantis. The time of the appearance matches perfectly with the catastrophic events 12,800 years ago, and the place of settlement is always away from the coast on top of the hill, which will be a preferable place for frightened people. In support of all this evidence, I will bring to your attention the fact that Mars hasn't experienced meteorite bombardment despite, that Mars' position is the closest to the Asteroid belt and Mars should be bombarded heavily. The other clue is that our Moon has been heavily bombarded only on one side! This can be explained only if the duration of this bombardment is very short! And the short time of bombardment can be caused only by quickly passing objects.

In the end, it turned out, that the biblical story of Noah's flood and the ancient legends of the great flood embedded in all other religions have a real origin. - And the origin of all these stories is the catastrophic cosmic event, that happened 12,800 years ago, and which wiped out the advanced human civilizations. It has reduced the human population to the brink of extinction and re-set human knowledge by many thousands of years! The story of Atlantis is only one event of this great catastrophe for human civilization. The question is - can we find it? Probably, but nothing is guaranteed because it can be very deep in the ocean floor. One day, when our technology becomes capable of scanning deep in the ocean floor, we will have the answer to this question. But there is something that we can learn from this story:

The ancient text states that the reason for “God” fury has been the greed and the corruption of the ancient human societies.

I am wondering, are we not ready for the next “ethical rearrangement” of humanity?
